PREFACE.

In preparing a new and up to date book of reference with regard to the anonymous and pseudonymous publications of England and America, the authors have worked with the following ends in view, — to produce a work which would definitely identify as many books and authors as possible ; and to put it in such a form that it might be produced at a price which would place it within the means of those who cannot own the more expensive bibliographical works.

With this in mind, particular stress has been laid upon pseudonyms. John Wolcot wrote countless books under the pseudonym of « Peter Pindar ». It was thought sufficient in such a case to identify the author, rather to duplicate the entry in the case of each individual books.

Sir Walter Scott has written many works which did not bear his name in the early editions, but were signed « By the Author of Waverley. » At Mr. Block's suggestion, we have included such signatures in the category of pseudonyms ; works published in this fashion. then, are identified under an « Author of » entry. By this device alone, about 35,000 entries are eliminated.

It was further decided to reduce the bulk of the volumes by quoting only enough to the title to positively identify any book. The date given is in most cases that of the first edition.

Anonymous and pseudonymous entries will readily be distinguished in this way: Anonymous books are followed by the name of the author IN BRACKETS and prefixed by the word « BY »; a Pseudonym is followed by the name of the author employing it, WITHOUT BRACKETS and without the word « BY ».

We must acknowledge an indirect debt to all previous works on the subject of anonymous literature. Our work has been incomparably less difficult than that of those who were pioneers in the field, for in the forty six years since the first important contribution to the subject was published, the greater part of the information which was at first so labouriously collected has been bandied back and forth in the world of books and of research until many of the once difficult problems have become bibliographical platitudes.

The research on the present work was begun ten years ago by Mr. Andrew Block, who began making a card index for his personal use. Mr. Stonehill began independently but on similar lines at Yale University, about six years ago, and continued accumulating material as a hobby at Oxford University. Since that time, both collections grew until by amalgamation, we found ourselves with almost the complete manuscript of ANONYMA AND PSEUDONYMA.

Work began in earnest when the project of publishing was conceived. Such lengthy works as Sabin's remarkable Dictionary of Books Relative to America were consulted; a systematic selection made from Courtenay's Register of English Bibliography; old files of booksellers and auctioneers' catalogues resurrected, etc. etc. Almost no book of sufficient importance to have been listed in a bookseller's catalogue or in those of auctioneers in the past fifty years, or included in any of the specialized bibliographies which we consulted could well have escaped our attention.

We particularly wish acknowledge the courtesy and aid of Messrs. Christopher Millard, Thomas J. Wise, Roger Ingpen, Allardyce Nicoll, A. F. Johnson P. P. Barnard, Archibald Sparke, Peddie, Grant Richards, the late John Lane, Fisher Unwin, A. W. Evans, Alexander Moring, C. Schelling, F. A. Meason, Herbert Jones, Stephen K. Jones, Mr. Wadley of the Kensington Public Libraries, Holbrook Jackson, Mitchell Kennerley, Michael Sadleir, G. L. Lazarus, Walter Peck, Shane Leslie, W. Paterson, Major F. Sadleir, Col. Wright, J. A. D. Bridger, W. R. Smyth, Edgar Leslie Bliss, Wilfrid Meynell, and Miss Ruth Graniss.

Thanks are also due to the following libraries and their librarians: British Museum, Bodleian Library, Kensington Public Libraries, Huntington Library, Dr. Williams' Library, Yale University Library, Harvard University Library, University of Chicago Library, Northwestern University Library, Grolier Club, J. P. Morgan Library, Bolton Public Libraries, etc.

Also to the Anderson Galleries, the American Art Association, Sotheby's, Messrs. Hodgson, the Book Dealers Weekly, Publishers' Weekly, Publishers' Circular, Messrs. Edward Arnold, Pearson, Cassell's, John Murray, Allen & Unwin, Maggs Bros., Pickering and Chatto, James Tregaskis, Ellis, Henry Sotheran, Edwards, Birrell and Garnett, Elkin Matthews, Martin McGoff, P. A. Barnard, Walter Hill, P. J. & A. E. Dobell, etc., etc., many of whom have put their entire files at our disposal. Particular thanks must also be given to Henry Stevens, Son, and Stiles for permission to make use of their index to auction records and other publications.

In general, we wish to acknowledge the co-operation of the many who cannot be listed here who have sent lists of anonymous books, or individual items ; and to the subscribers whose kindness has made possible the publication of this work.

BRIEF KEY.

An anonymous book is followed by the name of the author IN BRACKETS, preceded by the word "BY". The date is generally that of the first edition.

A pseudonym is followed by the name of the author using it, WITHOUT BRACKETS.

Thus —

ESSAYS OF ELIA (1823). (By Charles Lamb.)

ELIA (1823-32): Charles Lamb.

In the case of entries of the same title or pseudonym, the ones without date are placed first, followed in chronological order by the dated items.

Thus —

CLERGYMAN. (Call to Righteousness): Thomas Jones.

CLERGYMAN. (1696): Robert Hanwell.

CLERGYMAN. (1699): (By Henry Toms.)

CLERGYMAN. (1706): John Smith.

Titles and Pseudonyms are in the same alphabet.

Pseudonyms are listed according to the last name.

LOOK FOR THE PSEUDONYM FIRST.
